“The new physics engine is the central piece of technology that enables the HyperMotion technology and it delivers incredible realism,” said FIFA Content Producer Michael Olson. “This new engine has benefited from a real FIFA team effort, which allowed us to develop a radical new engine that delivers a football experience that is not just visually stunning, but also creates new ways for players to interact with the ball on-screen.” Other additional features included on the FIFA Ultimate Team in-game card market include an instant game mode that allows players to play a game with friends over the Internet in just five minutes. For the first time in the franchise's history, FIFA brings every mode of the game and a brand-new experience into one all-inclusive package, including completely re-crafted and re-imagined gameplay. With revolutionary changes to its engine, it makes players and clubs move in a completely new way, the ball flies differently than ever before and ground-breaking new tactical options put an unprecedented level of choice in the hands of the players. The engine is more than eight times faster than FIFA 19 FIFA 22 brings a host of gameplay changes that will revolutionise the FIFA experience. It is eight times faster than FIFA 19, which delivers a smoother and more responsive gameplay experience - an experience that will allow players to express themselves in more advanced ways across every mode. The key to this change was the move away from objects, animations and AI. This made the world around players more realistic, including how they move and the way the ball reacts when it's kicked, punched or received. This also revolutionises pitch and stadium graphics, which are in turn brought to life with a new variety of crowd animations and more detailed pitch markings. In addition, the ball completely changes how it reacts on the pitch.

While previously the ball was made of 30,000 polygons, FIFA 22 makes use of approximately 250,000 - giving the ball increased flexibility to react realistically to human behaviour, such as the way it curves and spins when kicked. This allows players to express themselves in totally new ways on the pitch, including by making it behave how they want it to, rather than following traditional AI player behaviours. This revolutionary change also means that every player can be controlled in multiple ways, including AI-controlled in such a way that you can control each defender and attacker independently. The new generation of ball physics delivers freedom of movement FIFA 22 also sees a new set of artificial intelligence behaviours, including variable pro-active and reactive play. Whereas FIFA 19 had a single baseline, the AI in FIFA 22 will react differently when players are in possession of the ball - and will also exhibit more unpredictability and unpredictability if they are on the ball. The result is a more organic, free-flowing game where players can now choose how they want to control their team, rather than being forced into a single option. The key to FIFA 22's ball physics is the new set of ball controls that EA SPORTS has equipped all players with. By utilising sophisticated AI that reacts to players' positioning, bc9d6d6daa
